

“FROM BELBROUGHTON TO BOTANY BAY”

Dr. David Cox

This is the fascinating story of Sarah Bellamy, transported to Australia on the First Fleet, 1787.

David has been a professional crime historian for almost two decades and has appeared on both BBC Radio 4 and BBC Radio Merseyside. He has also been a guest speaker at the National Archives on several occasions.

He is currently Co-Editor of Wolverhampton Law Journal, and President of Wordsley History Society.

He is the author or co-author of over a dozen academic and local history books and from 2001-2005 was Editor of The Blackcountryman, the quarterly journal of the Black Country Society.

He offers a wide range of talks and is much in demand.
